

Digital marketing of alcoholic beverages: what has changed?

Thursday, 09 December, 2021 – 12:00–13:30 CET

[CLICK HERE
TO REGISTER](#)

ABOUT

The more individuals are exposed to alcohol marketing, the more likely they drink. Exposure to alcohol marketing increases acceptability on drinking alcohol, age of onset and drinking behaviour, including binge drinking. Digital platforms quickly became a powerful marketing tool for alcoholic beverages. Through constant and systematic data collection, digital platforms elicit consumer preferences, attitudes and behaviours. Unlike television commercials or billboards, digital marketing of alcoholic beverages is not bounded by time or space, and its rapid expansion poses new challenges for its regulation and enforcement to be at pace. This webinar will feature digital marketing transformations, discuss the options to tackle this evolving phenomenon and outline possible next steps for the alcohol control field.

OPENING

Naoko Yamamoto

Assistant Director-General, Healthier Population Division, World Health Organization

Rüdiger Krech

Director, Department of Health Promotion, World Health Organization

SPEAKERS

Eric Carlin

Consultant, World Health Organization Regional Office for Europe
European Office for the Prevention and Control of Noncommunicable Diseases

Sally Casswell

Director, Social and Health Outcomes Research and Evaluation (SHORE) & Whariki Research Centre, New Zealand

Katrin Engelhardt

Scientist, Healthy Diet Policies
Department of Nutrition and Food Safety, World Health Organization

Benn McGrady

Head, Health Law and Policy Unit
Department of Health Promotion, World Health Organization

Dag Rekve

Senior Technical Officer, Alcohol, Drugs and Addictive Behaviours Unit
Department of Mental Health and Substance Use, World Health Organization

Juan Tello

Head, Less Alcohol Unit
Department of Health Promotion, World Health Organization

Lucy Westerman

Lead, Commercial Determinants of Health, Victorian Health Promotion Foundation – VicHealth, Australia

Participation in this event is by invitation. If you have not received one, you can still register; your application will be considered and subject to a declaration of interest.

Contact us: Lessalcohol@who.int