

Neo K. Morojele and Anne-Marie Laslett, Editors-in-Chief

SPECIAL ISSUE – CALL FOR PAPERS

Guest Editors: Monica Swahn, Eva Braaten, Sawitri Assanangkornchai, Kristina Sperkova, Joel Francis, Sebastián Peña

A Special Thematic Issue in the International Journal of Alcohol and Drug Research (IJADR)

Alcohol Prevention Research and Policy Development in LMICs: Facilitating Partnerships, Capacity and Impact

To accelerate engagement and dissemination of alcohol research and capacity building for the prevention of alcohol-related harm, in low-resource settings, we will host a special issue of IJADR.

This issue will be devoted to capacity building for:

- alcohol prevention research,
- alcohol policy development, and
- evaluation of alcohol control or policy measures.

For this special issue we welcome interdisciplinary, theoretical, qualitative and quantitative research papers as well as commentaries and reviews.

Topics for inclusion in the special issue can include, but are not limited to:

- partnership building,
- academic and NGO engagement,
- civil society responses to alcohol prevention and harm mitigation,
- tool development, and
- process evaluations and practical best practices for implementation science.

Manuscripts will be accepted until April 30th, 2023 and should be submitted on the website and follow the journal guidelines (see instructions for authors):
<https://ijadr.org/index.php/ijadr/about/submissions>

- If authors wish to send an abstract/concept before submission, please email to info@ijadr.org.
- Papers will be continuously published in Early View upon acceptance.
- Papers from low- or middle-income countries (where all contributing authors reside in an LMIC) will have all publishing fees waived.
- The article processing charge is US $750 for 3,000-word manuscripts for authors from high-income countries.
- Requests for fee reductions from early career researchers or students, from any country, are also considered.

For more information about the Special Issue [link to Concept Proposal]

For more information about IJADR

This Special Issue is generously sponsored by:

EDITORIAL TEAM

Guest Editors – Special Issue

Monica Swahn	Kennesaw State University, United States
Eva Braaten	FORUT
Sawitri Assanangkornchai	Prince of Songkla University, Thailand
Kristina Sperkova	Movendi International
Joel Francis	University of the Witwatersrand
Sebastián Peña	Finnish Institute for Health and Welfare, Helsinki

IJADR team

Editors-in-Chief
Neo K. Morojele	University of Johannesburg, South Africa
Anne-Marie Laslett	La Trobe University, Australia
Florian Labhart (webmaster)	Addiction Switzerland, Switzerland
Christine Buchanan (copyeditor)	University of Johannesburg, South Africa